

16-point Tico Star

The 16-point version uses exactly the same units as the ordinary 8-point Tico Star, but they're aligned slightly differently. So to make it – follow print off the 8-point Star instructions, make 16 units, and then follow the instructions below.

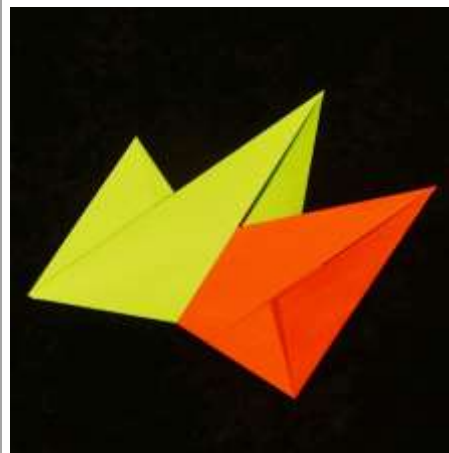

Instead of lining the units up like this...

...and ending up with this

Line them up along the sides shown here...

...and end up with this. It's very similar, but the angle between the units is smaller

Do this 16 times, and you're finished
